SMALL TOWNS

. . . over the entire country are losing something most precious to them -- their names on mail leaving their Post Offices. And Castroville, Devine, D'Hanis, Dunlay and Yancey are affected the same.

Hondo is no exception. The U.S. Postal Service didn't show our county towns any favoritism when it began postmarking mail with "U.S. Postal Service TX 788".

This is not really new; mail has been leaving Hondo with this postmark for some time and not too many citizens have noticed it -- or they haven't said too much about it if they have.

But maybe, and that's a "Just maybe" mind you, we can do something to change the situation.

Recently, Anvil Herald Owner Bill Berger asked Congressman J. J. (Jake) Pickle of Austin what could be done. Congressman Pickle answered:

"I appreciate your letter regarding our gradual loss of small town postmarks, and I value your support in this campaign to put the postmark of these small towns back on the envelope.

"We're starting to get a good response and I'm hopeful for enough public support that the U.S. Postal Service will think twice about this 'cost-saving' procedure."

The Congressman went on to mention he had written a news release on the subject and sent along a copy. It reads in part:

". . . In one fell swoop, the Postal Service has replaced local color, history and pride with a set of numbers which might warm the heart of a mathematician--but not the heart of a hometown booster.

"When I raised this question earlier, a news service ran the story on the national wire. I received sympathetic letters from throughout the United States, Canada, and Puerto Rico. Obviously, the people don't like being computerized.

"The Postal Service in Washington attacked me as being 'political'.

"Washington Postal Services officials say their job is to deliver the mail--period. I disagree. They -- this new corporation -say someone in Snook can still get their local postmark. But I note that they have to go downtown to the Post Office, usually between certain hours, to do so. And a whole lot of the mail will still simply be 'Postal Service number so-and-so'.

"I think a compromise could be worked out using both the U.S. Postal Service jargon and still retaining the local postmark. The small communities are the guts and backbone of this nation. Their fierce hometown pride should not only be preserved but encouraged.

"Besides . . . how does the FBI trace an extortion letter from U.S. Postal Service IA503?"

Alamo area plans told

The Alamo Area Council of Governments held a regular monthly meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Municipal Building Meeting

AACOG coordinators Bill Long, Gary Hensarling, and Alfredo Cevera reported on activities now in action for the region including Medina County, as well as those planned for the region in the Activities underway at present include a new Resource Conservation and Development Program, through which Medina County can receive grants from the U.S. Department of Agriculture through the regional body for farming and ranching needs, as well as soil conservation projects and recreation plan-

Also included among present projects is the funding of the Natalia Sewer Project, the Castroville Park and Heliport Project, and the Hondo Storm Sewer Project through the Economic Development Administration. Recent meetings between the EDA and officials from the Cities of Natalia, Castroville and Hondo resulted in an onthe-site tour being conducted to determine which agencies of the federal and state governments can have a role in meeting their needs. Medina Lake, which borders Bandera and Medina Counties, will soon be affected by the Medina Lake Recreation and Pollution Control Concept, wherein a task force of Bexar, Bandera and Medina county officials will set priorities for the control of pollution and the development of recreation on Medina Lake.

Projected activities for the AACOG in Medina County include the continued promotion of intergovernmental agreements and activities within the region, expanding the conservation project, and providing more technical assistance and support to member governments.

Plans are underway at present for extended co-operation among regional law enforcement officers, and funding has been received for this purpose (see other story this page).

Also in the planning stage is a drug abuse center for the area served by AACOG, as well as a program to discourage shoplifting among children and teenagers.

Due to the great and continued success of the MAST helicopter airlift program, which chose the AACOG region for one of its pilot programs, the Alamo area region is now a source of information for the establishment of similar programs elsewhere in the state and nation.

Bill Long also presented an outline for establishing in Hondo or other AACOG cities a program of day-care for children of working mothers. While the program is not set up or maintained by AACOG, the organization serves as a co-ordinator for private or municipal groups

More than 50 area farmers boarded buses at Chapman Grain, Inc. and traveled 150 miles to Taft to attend a field day sponsored by the Pioneer Hi-Bred Company, on Thursday, June 15.

The Medina Countians joined several hundred other South Texas region farmers a as the tour began at 10 a.m. on Pioneer Sorghum Co's experimental farm two miles south of Taft.

Guides Joe Faber and Clarence Dorman, who are sorghum breeders, and Jim Higdon, an Agronomu Service specialist, conducted the farmers through the newly rained-on fields to show the results of scientific crossbreeding reflected in superior sorghum crops.

The farmers expressed their satisfaction with the tour itself as well as the fact that they were treated to a nice rain along with the crop

A telegram received Thursday, June 15, from the office of U.S. Senator John Tower states that the Rural Electrification Agency has approved a grant in the amount of $1,603,000 to the Medina Electric Cooperative in Hondo.

The loan is for the purpose of financing 137 miles of distribution lines to 350 consumers for various system improvements.

Medina Electric serves Medina, Atascosa, Dimmit, Duval, Frio, LaSalle, Mc-Mulle, Webb, Zavala, Brooks, Jim Hogg, Starr, Zapata, Edwards, Kinney, Real and Uvalde counties.

The tour was shortened by rains, but not before the farmers saw several new strains of planes, including a new hybrid yellow endosperm which is resistant to

AACOG given grant

AUSTIN -- Alamo Area Council of Governments and Bexar County and the City of San Antonio were among 26 regional and metropolitan area planning councils awarded criminal justice planning grants for fiscal 1973 today by Governor Preston Smith. Amounts were $46, -600 for AACOG and $30, 007 for Bexar County and San

The awards, totaling $793, 718, will come from the Criminal Justice Council, which oversees statewide law enforcement planning and administers funds from the U.S. Department of Justice for crime control projects in Texas.

The grant to AACOG will be used in implementing action projects outlined in previous plans and in updating the comprehensive five-year criminal justice plan for the 11 counties it serves.

AACOG furnishes professional criminal justice planning services to each local governmental unit in the region's 11 counties and serves as a regional clearinghouse for projects.

These counties are Atascosa, Bandera, Bexar, Comal, Frio, Gillespie, Guadalupe, Kendall, Kerr, Medina, and Wilson. The region's cash contribution to the criminal justice planning effort for the coming year will be $11, 486, plus $3, 335 for the metropolitan area.

Activities to be supported during the year in the law enforcement field by AACOG include regional law enforcement radio and teletype communications, regional law enforcement training, crime prevention, regional crime laboratory and organized crime control and special operations unit.

Under the Bexar County and San Antonio planning grant the Bexar County Metropolitan Criminal Justice Council will serve as a planning agency and oversee all applications from departments or agencies of the county and the city for funds from CJC or other funding

Bike reminders

A series of traffic statistics received Monday morning prompts this editorial reminder to those of us who, because we are kids too young to get a driver's license, old health nuts who pedal off the pounds in our spare time, or pollutionconscious rebels against the noxious Detroit monstors of the highways, turn on to the thrills of bicycle riding.

Whoever we are, let us remember this statistic, sent out by the Department of Public Safety: Deaths caused by car-bicycle accidents are up 260% statewide over last year. To date. 778 accidents involving an auto and a bicycle have been recorded. Last year at this time. 460 had been recorded. Fighteen persons have lost their lives this year. Another 703 persons have been injured. This is frightening and it should be.

Admittedly, the craze of boking has caught on statewide among college and even high school students, and this accounts for an increase in sheer numbers of cyclists over the year. More bike riders, more accidents. But that's not necessarily so. Even in rural areas, where population is static or shrinking, car-bike deaths were colored clothing after sundown and on any but the sunniest day. This goes for everybody, including Zorro and Father Steubben. Also, when possible, wear protective clothes, like jeans instead of shorts, just in case of a fall. Hell's Angels do.

3. Mount a reflector on your bike, and a light too, if you plan to ride at night.

4. Stay off the sidewalks. You are traffic too, just like a Mack truck or a Mercury, or even a motorcycle. Stop signs mean bikes too, as do red lights and staying on the right side of the road. 5. Ride friendly. It's more important to be courteous on a bicycle than in a car, because if it comes to blows, you don't have a chance. People in cars are slow to see a bike, and many of them can't make themselves wait for a bicycle to cross in front of them. There's no percentage in aggressive bikesmanship.

By Ace Reid

When conditions are good, there is no more beneficial reducing machine, musclebuilder, or sightseeing method than bicycle riding. Ask Genaro Avila over at Fischer's Barber Shop, or ask Wally Porter or the Overmann and Bybee families.

This could be brought about by consolidation of social services that now independently compete for federal funds under the welfare heading. All of us are for the consolidation of agencies and, in particular, as it will mean a new approach to prevent another tax bill.

The problem exists where the Comptroller of Public Accounts may not be able to certify to availability of funds over which the State has no control. Hopefully, this will be worked out during the Special Session.

FLOOD CONTROL

A topic very close to my heart as well as the majority of the people in my district is the subject of flood control and water conservation. I am going to urge the Appropriations Committee for favorable approval to the government's request for funds to assist local agencies and governments to help themselves in this respect. There is a possibility that there may be adequate state appropriations to pay the city's portion on a federal revenue sharing program. We have needed flood prevention and water conservation measures for too long. It shall be my endeavor to push for immediate funding for dam construction as I believe this item should be at the top of the list of priorities of the State.

"Italian bread sure has a lot of crust!" say Joe and Pearl Granieri of Mico who returned last week from a 25-day tour of European countries.

For Joe, it marked his first visit to his native Italy which he had left 76 years ago when, as a small boy of six, he accompanied his parents, the late Nic and Rosa Granato Granieri to San Antonio, Texas, where they established a new home and added eight more children to their family, all of whom remained loyal Texans.

Joe turned 82 in March of this year. For many years, his daughters and their families had been urging him to take the trip. When he persuaded his wife, Pearl, and his sister. Mrs. Lucile Athens of San Antonio, to accompany him, away they all went on May 23rd, aboard a 747 that Mrs. Granieri insists "was almost as big as the ocean it flew over". Mrs. Athens had made two trips abroad previously but had never visited Joe's birthplace in the little mountain village of Cosenza, in the area known as Sprizano Grande de

For the Granieris, it was an experience that they expect to enjoy again and again in retrospect. In a much too hurried interview. I tried to take enough notes to share some of their experiences with their many Medina County friends.

Other countries included on their itinerary were Germany and a boat trip on the Rhine; Switzerland and France (Paris) but the highlight of the whole tour was the visit to Cosenza.

Joe's vivid memory of his first home led him directly to it, "like a homing pigeon, " he says. The travelers engaged a taxi for the visit and word spread so fast among the 700 or so villagers that they turned out en come home.

"A young girl acted as messenger, " said Pearl, "and we could see her skirts fairly flying as she ran from door to door to announce our arrival. "

The hospitality was genuine and the visitors were royally welcomed. Although Joe was unable to trace any ancestral relatives, he noted a tavern with the name GRA-NIERI as proprietor and says they all agreed there was a definite "family resemblance". FOUNTAINS

SCENIC VIEWS

. . . we have seen plenty of from Hondo to Moses Lake, Washington (where this is being written) -- mountains, valleys, rivers, lakes, National Parks, Old Faithful in Yellowstone, snow-capped peaks (we even stopped in Wyoming so the girls could have a snow fight).

It has been beautiful -- everyone should definitely see the U.S. before heading off to some foreign country. It just might reignite that spark of National pride.

We have passed out Hondo postcards in many places and picked up several others on the way.

I must tell you about a smart man we met in Dubois, Wyoming. And hunters like Jack Winkler, E. J. Chapa, Reno Stanga, Norman Buescher, Woody Glasscock, Gip Chapman, Hilmer Mueller, Elmo Pope, Fred Bader and many others take note.

This man, Dale Warren, has hunted for 28 years and in that time has killed many different animals. He had them all mounted and now charges one buck for adults and 50 cents for children to see his "Wildlife Exhibit". And it's worth seeing.

But here is a man who has enjoyed life for 28 years and now has that enjoyment paying him good interest.

And he is a smart businessman. One is a little disappointed, after being hit in the face by dozens of bill boards, to see stuffed animals. Perhaps he was aware of this feeling when he tacked the following message on the wall:

"If after viewing this wildlife exhibit you are unhappy, then it means you don't know what you have seen."

Several ongoing studies being undertaken by AACOG include an input-output analysis for the region's economy which, by studying what sorts of products are "imported" into the region and which products are "exported", can provide a guide for attracting needed industry into Alamo area cities.

Another study is examining area fire protection equipment for the purpose of co-ordinating the fire departments of regional cities and towns to respond to common emergencies, Some unwritten agreements of cooperation exist today, but they will be formalized under the AACOG plans.

New concrete won't crack

AUSTIN -- Highway research being conducted at The University of Texas may save the tax payers millions of dollars each year.

Concrete is a porous material. Water seeping into the pores of concrete bridges freezes, expands and breaks off chips of concrete taking its toll in tax money for resurfacing projects.

UT engineers are studying the feasibility of filling the pores in concrete with plastic. Polymer concrete, as it is then called, has no air spaces so there is no place for water to seep in. In addition, it is four to five times stronger than ordinary concrete and more resistant to abrasive wear.

It would have been difficult for me to have stayed here if it hadn't been for all the friendly people.

COUNT-DOWN on this column's weekly space consumption begins today. This is public notice to our editorial and ad departments that the number of column-inches previously allocated to and consumed by the prose slugged in by "THAT'S ALL..." is now available for more thought-provoking or remunerative verbiage. Watch this space (after July 1) for bigger and better bargains!

BORN in 1965 and still enjoying mileage, my faithful Chevrolet Belaire is being readied for overland transfer to the Gulf Coast. ELTON LUTZ M.D. (Dr. of Motors) has the case for diagnosis and recommended treatment at WINKLER MO-TORS, which is my assurance that whatever needs doing will be done right.

I found a cartoon that must apply often when some women (including me) take their cars to a shop for attention. A disillusioned (or perhaps understandably cynical) attendant stands by a sign advertising LADIES' DAY SPECIALS and itemizing the available services thus: "We repair tinkly beeps, plinks, buzzes, funny little clicks, screechy noises, flippity-flops and uh-oh's."

If my car showed any such symptoms, Elton will have taken care of them before releasing the patient. (Shop at home -- it pays!)

The name XAVIER is pronounced JAVIER in Spanish. So it is that the three-year old (and youngest) of the three sons of ABRAHAM and CAR-MEN GUEDEA is called "Havvy".

What his brothers ROGER (10) and RICHARD (8) plan to do when they grow up is of no present concern to Havvy. As for him, he intends to "work for GARY just like Daddy".

The GARY employment division might as well reserve one application blank right now.

THOSE OF US who were not Hondoans in 1939 missed out on a shoe sale at the E. R. LEINWEBER COMPANY. A summer ad at that time featured:

"For stylish ladies, the latest in spat shoes with giddy high heels; the gayest of them with a forepart of quilted patent and a rich, dull suede spat to contrast beautifully over Milady's instep. Price $1.98 per pair."

This is what the late John Poerner, who spent his childhood on Parker's Creek, D'Hanis, had to say about farming, as quoted in the Aug. 11, 1939 issue of the ANVIL HERALD:

"To meet every issue such as drouth etc., farmers should save when they have something, look out for themselves, and not depend too much on the government to look out for them."

I have not been able to establish the relationship of the late John Poerner to our State Representative JOHN H. POERNER but I believe that they might share the same opinions.

Did you know that EMMETT KOLLMAN and AL HOLLMIG were once members of a group known as The Bouncing Baby Boys? They were billed among the star performers at the 1939 PTA Halloween Carnival.

Announcement of my pending move to Corpus has prompted several calls, proving the friendliness of Medina Countians.

One caller was Mrs. AMANDUS MUENNINK who said that her son DARRELL is with the U.S. Navy Fire Department in CC. Perhaps on some future visit, she can bring me the latest news from "my old home town".

A cheerful optimist who whistles or sings as he works is my friend, CHON TRINIDAD who does the daily housekeeping for our Uncle Sam's Hondo post office.

When someone commented that windows didn't stay clean very long and that sweeping and mopping were endless tasks, Chon said, "Sure, but if this placed stayed clean all the time, what would that do to my job? Besides, I like my work."

TONY MENDOZA remembers Chon as an "always happy and busy man" in the years when Tony was a small boy and accompanied his late father on walks "downtown to see what was going on in those days."

Lynn Leinweber elected to Bluebonnet Girls State

Lynn Leinweber of Hondo High School, a citizen of the American Legion Auxiliary Bluebonnet Girls State now in progress in Seguin at Texas Lutheran College, was elected Commissioner, Place 1, Ride County. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Leinweber, Jr. and was sponsored to Girls State by the local American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 128.

Girls State was organized as a national Americanism activity in 1937 by the American Legion Auxiliary. Non-partisan and non-political, the purposes of the Girls State program are to provide citizenship training for girls of high school age, to afford them an opportunity to live together as a self-governing group and to inform them of the duties, privileges, rights, and responsibilities which they will assume when they become adults. They learn the problems of government by simulating the duties of city, county, and state officials. Each year citizens are selected at local levels from students who have just completed their junior year in high school. The selection is based principally on character, leadership and scholarship.

The 1972 session of the American Legion Auxiliary Bluebonnet Girls State has grown from an experimental conference of 94 girls, held at Baylor University in 1941, to become the largest single extracurricular educational program for high school girls in Texas. This year 513 girls are in attendance, plus two girls from Mexico making a total of more than 9, -725 girls in Texas who have participated in this top-level citizenship program.

Retired Associate Justice Meade Griffin of the Texas Supreme Court administered the oath of office to the elected state officials of Bluebonnet Girls State Monday, June 19, in the rotunda of the State Capitol.

One of the highlights of the session which began June 13, and ends June 23, will be the selection of two outstanding citizens of 1972 who will be sent to Girls Nation in Washington, D.C. by the American Legion Auxiliary. There the two young representatives will continue their study in responsibilities of the Republic.

LEGALIZE MARIJUANA - WHY?

HOW WOULD LEGALIZATION EFFECT TAXES AND OTHER COSTS TO THE PUBLIC?

The national legalization of marijuana would relieve many social and legal pressure spots in our society, true. The court case loads, for example, would be lightened considerably, thereby leaving time to handle other matters far more expediently than now. Many pressures between parents and their children would be eliminated too. But, indications are that we might well be simply exchanging problems for others which could be far more serious

Let's suppose for a moment that marijuana became legalized. Knowing what we know about it, if only from the previous articles in this series, it stands to reason that greater federal and state hospital facilities would eventually have to be provided for those who became hopelessly involved in marijuana use, especially in those cases where it did lead to addiction to hard drugs. The federal government is presently in the process of establishing new drug treatment centers in various cities all over the country, but legalizing marijuana could only add to this need. Thus, more tax money would have to go into the construction of treatment facilities, more professional personnel would have to be hired, and all of the other vast number of purchases would be made that go with the maintenance of hospitals.

Every state's motor vehicle code would no doubt have to be changed. Probably operating an automobile under the influence of marijuana would have to be treated much the same as our present law governing driving while drunk. Presently, about half of all fatal auto accidents in the country are in some way attributable to the use of alcohol. If marijuana could be sold legally we would be running the chance of doubling or tripling our highway accident and death toll. This would necessitate the development of new detection devices to determine if a driver was actually under the influence of marijuana when involved in a traffic violation or an accident, and many new laws would have to be written to govern court actions where marijuana use was con-

In addition, automobile insurance costs would be a factor. Insurance companies must raise premium rates as their losses increase. This is a fact of business. If our accident toll on the highway doubled or even increased by only 10%, it takes no Harvard professor to see that auto insurance would go even higher than it is today!

Since marijuana obviously dulls one's senses and robs him of his desire to get ahead in school, job or life in general, it stands to reason that youngsters would be dropping out of school at an even greater rate than they do now. This would throw them into the business of earning a living without proper preparation and in fields in which they would not hold a true interest. The lethargy caused by marijuana use could then eventually lead to many more young families going on welfare, because of the destruction of Suppose marijuana were legalized for use in the privacy of one's own home. And, let's say both the young husband and his wife became habitual marijuana users. How long do you think such an arrangement would allow for earning a living to support themselves, their children and their habit? Results: more children to be put out for adoption and again, more welfare service costs.

When young marijuana advocates argue that marijuana is not as bad for you as alcohol, cigarettes, and other things society they are perhaps right to some extent. But, in the words of that popular song hit, "What The World Needs Now Is Love", ... "Lord, we DON'T NEED another mountain." Or, two wrongs surely do not make a right! Saying that alcohol usage is far worse than marijuana, and therefore marijuana is all right, is like saying, "my father was a murderer . . . all I do is rob filling stations.

So then, aside from the moral aspects of marijuana use, we as a society cannot AFFORD to legalize the drug. We cannot continue to add financial burdens on the public and survive as a nation. And, if AMERICA doesn't survive, what will happen to the rest

Miss Been seeks 'Miss So. Texas' title

Wanda Janelle Been, reigning Miss Hondo, plans to attend Baylor University next fall but it's a fact that the perky 5-foot, 5-inch Wanda is casting her eyes on more immediate plans -- and that is to reign as Miss South

Wanda Janelle, 18-yearold graduate of Hondo High School last spring, has all the requisites of a winner.

Talent, she has received extensive training in playing the plano and french horn. As such, she has been a member of the Hondo Band which won district and regional hon-

She's also an eye-catcher with brown hair and brown eyes and an appealing medium-dark complexion. Her's is a rare blend of talent and beauty.

During her high school days she served as vice-president of the Future Homemakers of America, was a member of the National Honor Society, Teen Tones, the Spanish Club. And while she wasn't involved in school activities, which did not sidetrack her from being an honor student, Wanda Janelle has enjoyed her hobby of cycling.

A royal welcome awaits Wanda in Seguin on Monday, July 3rd, where she'll be joined with more than 30 other beauty queens also seeking the Miss South Texas title this year.

First public phase of the "Miss South Texas" contest, that involving the talent and evening gown divisions, will commence at 7:30 p. m. at Texas Lutheran College's Wupperman Theater. But the girls will have been interviewed by the judges at 4:30 p. m. and subsequently dined with them at 5:30 p.

Following Monday night's talent and evening gown revue, the girls might even take in a little of Seguin's fabulous Freedom Fiesta celebration. An abundance of music, food and fun will be available to one and all during this year's 'downtown in old Seguin' Fiesta nightly on June 30, July 1 and 3.

Following the parade, they will be guests of honor at Seguin Mayor Al Koebig's annual barbecue at Starcke

They will then await the final phase of the "Miss South Texas" competition, which will be the bathing suit division held at Starcke winners will be announced at that time.

Park's swimming pool. Top

Other special guests of this year's July 4th celebration will be past "Miss South Texas" winners starting with the year 1946. Mayor Koebig is issuing a special invitation to each of those past winners and to the mayors of the towns each represented during their winning year.

Wanda Janelle, daughter of Autry Been of Yancey Star Route. Hondo is sponsored by the Hondo Lions Club.

Freedom Fiesta slated in Seguin June 30-July 4

The City of Seguin, Chamber of Commerce and all local agencies have heeded that cry by blue printing an exciting Freedom Fiesta celebration commencing on June 30th and ending with a fireworks display the night of July 4th.

That Freedom Fiesta comprises three nights of gala food, fun and entertainment for this city's traditional 'nights in Old Seguin'. And this year there'll be more of everything than ever before, with special emphasis being provided a full slate of musical entertainment, street dancing and additional favorite food selections of various nationalities.

Strolling Mariachi bands, those colorful Mexican troubadours so beloved by natives and visitors south of the border, will be entertaining from 7:30 to 9:30 nightly throughout the Fiesta site in downtown Seguin.

Two different types of street dancing will also be held throughout all three Fiesta 'nights in Old Seguin'.

A royal flavor of beauty will spice up the celebration, a guarantee made good annually by the Miss South Texas Beauty Pageant. A grand parade, barbecues and pointes are also being planned for the four days of this year's celebration.

The July 4th parade will start at 10 a. m. Tuesday and wind its way through the heart of Seguin. Crowds will then go to Starcke Park for barbecues, picnics and more

The final phase of the Miss South Texas Pageant will start at 6 p. m. that evening. Tickets for this year's talent and gown division of the Pageant are being sold in the Seguin area this year by members of the Lions and Kiwanis Clubs.

Concluding the four-day celebration will be the traditional fireworks held annually at Starcke Park at about 9:30 p.m. July 4th.

Also under observation are various trains of turf type grasses such as those used for golf course greens.

"Texas" main source of agricultural income is from livestock. Grass is the fundamental necessity for the livestock industry. Grass production and research today is becoming more and more technical. This also is leading to better varieties of grasses, which in turn means better livestock production, "White said.

Petry heads State Chamber

"Greater unity of Texas" regional chamber of commerce in meeting responsibilities to business and indus try " was pledged by Herbert C. Petry, Jr., newly elected president of the Texas State Chamber of Commerce at the chamber's meeting this week in Aus -

Expressing the need for "even greater" cohesion among chambers in Texas, Petry, who also heads the South Texas Chamber of Commerce, said he would look to leadership from new vice-president Bill B. Cobb of Corpus Christi and presidents of the other regional chambers who serve with him on the state board in living up to his pledge.

Regional chamber presidents who will serve on the state chamber board with Petry include: James A. Wilson of the East Texas Chamber, Claude W. Brown of the West Texas Chamber, and B. C. Kindel of the Valley Chamber.

The enthusias m of the new state chamber's leadership was reflected in their first meeting when it was decided the chamber would meet once every month rather than only when it was deemed necessary, as in the past.

Also discussed in the meeting were plans to strengthen and expand civic affairs operations of regional and local chambers throughout the state.

A long time believer in the role of the chamber of commerce in the state of Texas, Petry pointed out the more business and industrial growth the state experiences the more jobs and consumer products for the individual citizen of Texas.

In assuming duties as head of the Texas State Chamber of Commerce, Petry, a Carri zo Springs attorney and member of the Texas Highway Commission, brings with him experience he has gained as president of the South Texas Chamber.

Cobb, a Corpus Christi banker, brings with him leadership experience gained from his present position, chairman of the state affairs committee and a special tax and appropriations study committee for the South Texas Chamber of Commerce. He has also served as the governor's budget director in the Connally adminis tration.

Other members of the board of directors of the Texas State Chamber include: C. Q. Abernathy of the East Texas Chamber, J. Fike Godfrey of West Texas' chamber, J. C. Looney of the Valley Chamber, Emil Rassman of West Texas' chamber, and Alf Jernigan of East Texas' chamber.

Leadership of the Texas State Chamber is rotated among the four regional chambers.
